STATE NEWS

Androscoggin

Hon. A. A. Strout, of Portland, was in Lewiston, Thursday. He was accompanied by leading representatives of the Grand Trunk railroad. A conference was held with a number of influential citizens of the two cities on the feasibility of extending the Grand Trunk from its present terminus on Lincoln street to Main street, Lewiston, and the erection of a depot at the Lewiston end of the Main street bridge. It is understood that the company desires the cities of Lewiston and Auburn to bear the burden of expense. In other words, they want the same persons who own the present road to own the proposed extension, and will issue securities for its payment, with a sinking fund attachment, guaranteeing sufficient rental to pay the interest. The project has been considerably talked of and recommended in the past, but this meeting gives the movement some importance and it is thought the change will be made.

Aroostook

The dwelling house, shed and barn at Perham, occupied by Wm. Goggins and owned by Mrs. Mahala Chase, was burned on Sunday night, reports the Aroostook Republican. Mr. Goggins saved his horse and a cow, but lost nearly everything in the shape of bedding, furniture, etc.

The family of Mr. George A. Grass, of Fort Fairfield, have been sadly afflicted the past week in the loss of two lovely daughters, aged respectively fourteen and eighteen years. Mamie, the oldest, was seized with that dread disease pneumonia, on Sunday, March 11th, and Lucy with the same on the following Tuesday. Everything was done for them that love and medical skill could suggest, but of no avail. The younger died Wednesday morning, March 21st, while Mamie lingered in great suffering until Thursday evening. They were girls of unusual promise, and greatly beloved by all who knew them.

Hancock

Mr. George E. Googins, of Millbridge, has been engaged during the past winter in writing a novel which he will soon publish. The title of the book will be "Baymeath," the name of the DeKoven cottage on Eden street, in Bar Harbor, and the scene of one of the chapters will be laid at Bar Harbor.

H. H. Pressey has sold the Deer Isle Gazette, and his entire publishing business to P. S. Knowlton, who will hereafter edit and publish that paper and conduct the business formerly carried on by Mr. Pressey.

Kennebec

A man belonging in Pittston, was brought out of the woods to Stratton, last Monday, who was very severely hurt in the head while at work on the landing, by a blow from a skid on which he was rolling logs. He was supposed to be dead for some time. The doctor who was called to treat him thought he would recover.

The Pittsfield Advertiser says that a few days ago Mrs. Byron Moore, of Benton, in getting down from a scaffold in the barn, fell, and her thigh caught on a railroad spike and there she hung until relieved. She received a deep wound nearly three inches in length. If it had extended another half-inch it would have severed an artery and she would have bled to death.

St. Mark's church, Augusta, (Episcopal) is to be furnished with a beautiful and costly memorial altar, presented by the Lambard family in memory of the late Mrs. Allan Lambard. The material will be [illegible] with the gift. They were also taken by the same [illegible] driftnet, the boat [illegible] being a canoe. The fishing ground [illegible] Waterville and the price of salmon [illegible] six cents a pound. [illegible] Boston [illegible]

Lincoln

Piscataquis

Messrs. F. [illegible] and C. H. [illegible] have bought Mr. John K. Robbins' interest in the proprietorship of the Foxcroft Exchange, and will take possession Monday, April 2. Both gentlemen are well known here as men of good principles and judgment and have had experience in the business, the former having worked for Mr. Robbins as clerk and the latter [illegible] Exchange in Dexter.

Sagadahoc

A schooner of about 1100 tons will be built the coming summer at the yard of Wm. [illegible] The frame is being got out in woods of the northern part of the State. The vessel is to be completed by the first of November.

The 26th of April will be a grand day with the Odd Fellows of Bath. On that date Canton King will give a reception and ball at the Alameda. The programme for the day has not yet been fully matured, but there will be a parade in the afternoon by Canton King and Canton Worumbus of Lewiston in the afternoon, and an exhibition drill by the Lewiston Cantons in the evening.

John Stetson's steam yacht Sapphire will be launched from the New England Ship Building Company's yard in two weeks. She is so large that she will be partially built up on the stocks and will be launched from big shed. As soon as the Delaware [illegible] lighter will sail [illegible] Small Point and up the New Meadows river for the purpose of [illegible] the six [illegible] of the stall and socket [illegible] In the winter [illegible] Wednesday night [illegible] was discovered in the required portion but it was [illegible] up before the damage result [illegible]

Somerset

The house of Calvin Eldridge, situated in the southwest part of Pittsfield was totally destroyed by fire Monday morning. Mr. Eldridge got up about five o'clock in the morning, built a fire and went back to bed. The next thing he knew the house was all afire. The loss is estimated at [illegible] days the Advertiser.

[illegible] reported at the annual meeting of the Kennebec [illegible] and Lumber Company [illegible] show that $170,000 worth of business has been done the past year, using about six million feet of lumber, says the Fairfield Journal. The following officers were elected: President, J. M. [illegible], Whitinsville, Mass.; Secretary and Treasurer, G. H. Bragg, Fairfield; Agent, [illegible], Boston.

Robinson Brothers have bought the woolen building adjoining the burnt brick mill at Skowhegan, with power for five years, says the Somerset Reporter, and have also purchased of Geo. S. Webb the property owned [illegible] building and the bridge [illegible] put in a new building [illegible] the old brick [illegible] smith shop now [illegible] for their sash, door and blind manufactory and [illegible] wool working business.

The logging teams are hurrying out of the woods. The Dead River road is a hard road to travel. There are from three to five feet of snow and the road is made up of two paths, [illegible] about one foot or a little more wide on which horse teams travel double or single with sleds over sleighs. Horses that are accustomed to the roads have but little trouble in keeping the paths, but horses that are not accustomed to them have great difficulty in doing it. They are liable to fall off between the paths on one side or the other, and it is much more difficult to get the horse back if they fall between. Horses sometimes become so demoralized that it is necessary to haul them to [illegible] roads leading to Dead River.

Washington

The Eastport Sentinel reports the sad and unusual spectacle in the depot of the International Steamer Company, recently, of a man and woman in a beastly state of intoxication having in their care a baby less than a year old. They were strangers here and reported that they came from near South Robbinston, where the man had been working in the woods for a few weeks; that they belonged in Newton, Mass. It was afterwards learned that they had been over the line and invested their whole cash capital in liquor.

The schooner Lucy Amelia, of Whiting, Capt. Zenas Wheeler, has been at Eastport for the past few days with a load of apples. They are New Hampshire baldwins and sell for $3 and $3.25 a barrel. The vessel arrived in Eastport last January from Portsmouth with the same cargo of apples, and soon made her way up the river and has been frozen in above the Falls at Dennysville, until a week or ten days ago. During the two months she was confined by the ice, a fire was kept on board and there was no loss from frost.

While the schooner Lucy Amelia was frozen in above the Falls at Dennysville, a man by the name of Ryder, belonging to Steuben, lived aboard of her as ship keeper. About ten days ago Captain Wheeler went to the vessel to carry a supply of provisions for the man, and found that he was missing. Upon investigation it was ascertained that he had left the vessel some time that day in the boat to get a supply of fire wood. The vessel's boat was found near the shore, upset, and with a log lashed to it, one end of which had apparently rolled off and capsized the boat. The river was dragged in a search for the body, but without success. Ryder was a man of about twenty-eight years of age.

The Italians in Abyssinia are making war with all the latest modern improvements required by an army of 25,000 in an enemy's country. Small balloons with incandescent electric lamps, are to be used for night signalling, and big balloons will hover by day over the scene of operations, communicating to the army, by flags, the whereabouts and movements of the foe.

Miss Ethel Ingalls, daughter of Senator Ingalls, who has taken up newspaper work to help build a new home in place of the one burned at Atchison, Kan., a few months ago, is a handsome young woman, with blonde hair, dark flashing eyes, and an intellectual countenance. She visits the Capitol every day for news pointers, and the newspaper boys have invited her to a seat in the press gallery.

Oscar Wilde has had his dining room and all the furniture in it painted white, for the reason that "dead white is the only background against which a man looks picturesque in evening dress."

Stenographer D. F. Murphy has been the reporter of the United States Senate for nearly forty years. He has reported Clay, Webster and Cass, and later Sumner, Seward and other famous men.

Mr. Jefferson Matthews, of Dover, Ark., went out gunning for Mr. John Williams one night last week and by mistake shot and killed Mr. R[illegible] Burns. On learning of his error Mr. Matthews expressed regret.

The lumbering interest in Coos county, N. H., and Essex county, Vt., is this season carried on on an immense scale. Of spruce timber alone it is estimated more than 100,000,000 feet will be logged this winter from these two counties.

The late Chief-Justice Waite was seventy-two when he died. Justice Bradley is seventy-five, Matthews sixty-four, Harlan fifty-five, Blatchford sixty-eight, Gray sixty, Field seventy-two, Miller seventy-two and Lamar sixty-three.

The heirs of a merchant of Monson, Mass., received the other day thirty cents, sent by a man in Pennsylvania, who wrote that they were to pay for four apples that he stole from the merchant's store when he lived there forty years ago.

Miss Austine Snead, better known as "Mrs. Grundy," a Washington correspondent of several Eastern papers, died of pneumonia in Washington last Thursday. She was one of the best known female correspondents in Washington.

General Lew Wallace, the author of "Ben Hur," is said to be comically absent-minded. He has been known when at breakfast to put two heaping teaspoonfuls of sugar on a soft boiled egg and then, almost before the laughter had died away, to salt his coffee with great deliberation.

Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson, of Boston, has an income of $50,000 a year which she receives quarterly, and it is said she is often penniless before the end of the quarter. She spends her entire time and fortune in charity, and that without identifying herself with the objects of her generosity.

Cornelius Vanderbilt will soon sail for London with his family. He has taken a house in the English metropolis, beginning the 1st of May, and will reside there four months. The house is the same one which he occupied when he spent the London season on the other side six or seven years ago.

Rapid progress is being made on the mansion of Mr. Hopkins-Searles at Great Barrington, Mass. The great organ is in, and the furniture is beginning to arrive from Europe. Mr. and Mrs. Searles will return from Europe in a couple of months and will occupy the house before the end of the summer.

Andrew J. Blackbird, an Indian chief at Harbor Springs, Mich., has written a book on the traditional history of the Ottawa and Chippewa tribes. It is written in the Indian tongue and contains besides its historical part a complete system of grammar, in which the author shows there are 1,211 forms of a single verb.

J. S. Stanley, one of the wealthiest men in Denver and Vice President of the Denver City National Bank, was a poor miner in Gilpin county, Colorado, a few years ago. His wife took in washing to buy flour and bacon, while he dug his way through several hundred feet of barren rock. When he did strike "pay dirt" he sold his claim for $1,000,000.

Senator Bowen went to Colorado from Arkansas ten years ago, broken in health and poor. One night he won $100 at poker and gave it to a prospector for a grub stake. As a result of this venture he gained the Little Annie and Golconda mines, which have paid him as much as $10,000 a day in hard cash. A conservative estimate places the ore in sight at $2,500,000.

At a family dinner given the other day by Valentine Winters, a venerable banker of Dayton, Ohio, under the plates were found envelopes containing deeds, stocks, bonds, etc., aggregating nearly $700,000, as presents to his children and grandchildren. In like manner he divided $400,000 between them in 1882, and it is not an uncommon thing for his children to find $1,000 checks under their plates.

A young German girl went through the streets of Cedar Rapids, Ia., the other day, delivering small quantities of sauerkraut at each house, with the information that the husband of the lady of the house had ordered it, and told her to collect twenty-five cents. The scheme worked well until she came to a house inhabited by a widow. The girl is now in jail for getting money under false pretence.

Adam Sults, of Carlos City, Ind., celebrated his one hundredth birthday on March 1. He was born in North Carolina, was a blacksmith by trade, and boasts that no man ever laid him on his back. It is said that this is the first birthday for several years that he has not celebrated by chopping a cord of wood. The inclemency of the weather prevented, but he says that he'll do it yet. His sight and hearing are unimpaired.

There is to be a grand double wedding soon at the home of Mrs. Garfield. Harry Garfield is to marry Miss Belle Mason, and J. Stanley Brown, formerly the private secretary of President Garfield, is to marry Miss Mollie Garfield. Mrs. James Mason, of Cleveland, and her two daughters, Belle and Josie, are now in Bournemouth, England, waiting favorable weather before starting for the United States. Harry Garfield is with them, and the young persons have been engaged more than a year.

What you need is a medicine which is pure, efficient, reliable. Such is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It possesses peculiar curative powers. [illegible]

[illegible] DON'T GET CAUGHT this spring with your blood full of impurities, your digestion impaired, your appetite poor, kidneys and liver torpid, and whole system liable to be prostrated by disease—but get yourself into good condition, and ready for the changing and warmer weather, by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. It stands unequalled for purifying the blood, giving an appetite, and for a general spring medicine.

The Directors of the Knox & Lincoln Railroad are discussing the question of putting on a fall [illegible] night train on the M. C. [illegible] Brunswick.

The formation of a [illegible] tribe of the Improved Order of Red Men was taken hold of very enthusiastically by many of our young bloods, who seem delighted with the prospect of having an opportunity of [illegible] the Aborigines.

Through the efforts of Miss Annie Crie [illegible] Miss Grace Sprague, the Leap Year Dress Ball which was given in [illegible] Hall was said to be very elegant and successful affair, the most so that has taken place in the city for years. If any young lady that attended that ball failed to make the most of it she was not alive to the favorable opportunities of the occasion.

Gena Berry Lodge, K. of P., of this city is receiving an impetus in growth which is unprecedented in the organization here. Since the first of the year, degrees have been conferred on some twenty-seven members and applications from several others [illegible], which will [illegible] as fast as possible. A uniformed [illegible] of the order will be formed [illegible] for already members enough have signified their desire to enter to insure the formation of the rank.

Our newly elected Mayor W. S. White, is proving himself to be very active and efficient in the discharge of his duties. There were misgivings on the part of some when he was nominated because he was young and inexperienced in municipal affairs, never having served in either branch of the City Government, but at the present writing the indications are that he will give to the city a most successful administration of her business interests.

[illegible] preparing for the East Maine Conference, which convenes in this city on April 18th, when it is expected that about two hundred will be present, including ministers, their wives and lay delegates from the various churches in the conference.

Work on the [illegible] railroad will commence [illegible]. A large part of the material to be used in the construction has been purchased already.

BEAUTY'S DOWER.

Where grace and beauty most abound,
True happiness will oft be found.
Where ruby lips and glowing cheek
The gift of rugged health bespeak
The artist, Nature's nobleman,
Will risk the treasure of his art,
Depicting, deftly as he can,
The lines engraven on his heart.
Fair maiden, may life's richest joy
Spread her bright mantle over thee,
May years but gently with you toy,
And pleasures sweet, without alloy,
With fairest blossoms cover thee.

"Woman! be fair, we must adore thee,
Smile, and a world is weak before thee!"

But how can a woman smile when she is suffering untold misery from complaints from which we men are exempt? The answer is easy. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is an infallible remedy in all cases of the stomach, nervous prostration, and similar maladies. As a powerful invigorating tonic it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the womb and its appendages in particular. As a soothing and strengthening nervine it subdues nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms, and other distressing, nervous symptoms. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency. Sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, to give satisfaction.

FOURTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT.
Republican Convention.

The Republican Convention of the Fourth Congressional District will be held in City Hall, Bangor, Thursday, April 26th, at 9.30 A. M., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Congress, also of selecting a candidate for Elector of President and Vice President of the United States, and two delegates, and two alternates to attend the National Convention to be held at Chicago, Illinois, on Tuesday, June 19th, 1888, and transacting any business that may properly come before it.

The basis of representation will be as follows: Each city, town and plantation will be entitled to one delegate, and for each seventy five votes cast for the Republican candidate for Governor in 1886, one additional delegate, and for a fraction of forty votes in excess of seventy five votes, an additional delegate.

The District Committee will be in session in the Common Council Room at 8 o'clock on the morning of the Convention, for the purpose of receiving the credentials of delegates.

The Albany Times, a Democratic organ, thinks if Cleveland is nominated Blaine would be his most formidable opponent.

Eternal vigilance is the price of several things other than liberty. A cash drawer, treasury and an umbrella require a perpetual vigil.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

When a Bourbon Democrat of the "Honest old Dick Tate" stripe is around.

The Democrats of the First Congressional District of Massachusetts have gone to the snubbing business. At a convention to elect delegates to the National Convention no effort was made to pass the customary resolution indorsing the Administration but by a vote of the 66 to 11 the convention adjourned without even allowing the resolution to be read. The administration organs are very quiet about this snub.

The Boston Herald at last admits that the persistency with which the opposition press misrepresents the condition of Mr. Blaine's health is an "impertinence." That is a mild term to apply to the malignant lies that have been circulated, but when the Herald even in a mild sort of a way expresses the opinion that it is about time to call off the dogs there seems to be sufficient reasons why the other malignants should follow suit and stop this indecent chase.

If by the old treacherous alliance with the Republicans, the Mills bill, which is the Administration's bill, can be beaten, the Democratic party will rise in its might at St. Louis and put its foot upon treason and traitors in a way to make it felt for all time.

Col. Watterson had on his war paint when he penned the above, but the St. Louis platform will be one of these double enders, for which the Democrats are noted, just the same. Col. Watterson is a free trader and talks it right out but the Democratic party although a free trade party is not as frank as the Kentucky editor.

Representative Reed said to the Boston Traveller correspondent: "The publication of the report of the minority of the Ways and Means Committee is simply outrageous. It is a violation of all precedents. The custom is, and always has been, to allow the views of the minority to go the country with the report of the majority, but in this case, the Democrats, after first taking the position that they wouldn't allow us to see their report at all, then retreat from that position and publish it in the newspapers, and it gets to the country first. The Republican report will be ready for publication on Monday."

Senator Ingalls has written the following letter, putting the proper construction on what he said about Generals Hancock and McClellan in his recent speech:

The Democracy and their allies have grossly misrepresented me and endeavored to break the force of my argument by personal assaults and by distortion of my language. Every man of intelligence knows that my allusion to Hancock and McClellan were not as soldiers, but as Democratic candidates for the Presidency, as such they were allies of the Confederacy, as Grover Cleveland is and as every Democrat must be who aspires to that office, because he must be elected by the electoral votes of the solid South, which is as much an aggressive and potential force in our politics as it was in 1860. Unless the Republican party has the courage and intelligence to wage the ensuing campaign upon the platform of equal and exact justice to all under the law, they will fail, as they deserve to fail.

It is positively asserted from Washington that President Cleveland has not hid from at least three of the Indiana Democrats in Congress that he desires Governor Gray to have a place with him on the ticket, and besides this he had written an autograph letter to one of them at least expressing the same desire. This statement is not made upon mere current gossip, and is based upon positive knowledge. Besides this, he has informed Mr. Scott, of Erie, that Governor Gray is his choice, and Second Auditor Day has been actively at work in Illinois in behalf of Governor Gray. Both Messrs. Morrison and Black, each a Vice Presidential candidate himself, have called the attention of the President to the flagrant violation of the civil service order and General Black even sent a copy of Mr. Day's speech, published in Mr. Day's own paper, to the President as further evidence that the Second Auditor is mixing up in politics. This violation of the civil service law will probably strike the President as meritorious as long as its object is to further his own ends.

The New York World is much disturbed because the great majority of Republicans are of the opinion that Mr. Blaine ought to be nominated regardless of the letter he has written taking himself out of the field of candidates. The reason for this is found in the fact that the World is well aware that Mr. Blaine if nominated will be elected. The Blaine sentiment is confined to no particular section, but extends all over the country. The New Haven News, an independent paper, recognizes the widespread demand for Mr. Blaine's nomination in the following paragraph:

Despite the Florence letter and the subsequent World interview, Blaine receives more mention as a Presidential candidate than any other on the Republican side. His canvass, whether to his liking or to his disgust, is National, while that of all other Republican candidates is limited by State boundaries.

Mr. Blaine does not want the nomination and has left the way open for all aspirants, but two months after his letter was published finds the popular demand for his leadership at the head of the ticket as strong as ever. This unanimity and persistency on the part of the masses of Republicans is what troubles the Democratic organs.

According to present indications Chairman Mills will not receive an enthusiastic reception from his Texas constituents when he returns home. It is reported in Washington that the cattle dealers of Texas in convention at Waco, have passed resolutions denouncing Mr. Mills, and calling upon him to resign, upon the ground that he does not represent the sentiment of his State. The resolutions are very savage, and are doubly significant for reasons that the convention was held in Mr. Mill's district. George Clarke, who is a leading Democrat of the State, has written a long letter to the members of the Texas delegation in which he advises them to go slow for the Mills bill, stating that a strong reaction has set in against the measure, and that the sheep men are a unit in their opposition.

The Protective Policy

When it was announced that Hon. A. W. Beard was to speak in Lowell on the tariff, the Lowell News, as foolish as others of its kind, propounded a question as to how the factories of that city would be injured by the removal of the duty on building material, iron ore, coal, etc., and paraded the same in its columns in advance of the meeting. Friday night in the course of his remarks Mr. Beard took up the newspaper inquiry and said:

What is protection to American industries? What is the principle? It is national in its principles. It is not to ask if it is better for Lowell to have free coal or free wool; that is not the principle of protection. We are a nation of thirty-eight States and many Territories, and we must advocate political policies, governmental policies, which apply all over the nation. We cannot have one policy for Massachusetts and another for Ohio. What is right and just and equitable, that is the policy we should advocate. The principle of protection is that duties shall be levied on those products which compete with American products, that protection shall be given by way of the duties to those articles which compete with the things which we produce here or that we can produce here profitably, no matter whether they are the finished product of one man or the other. The articles we do not produce we admit free, and over one-third of our imports are free to-day.

What is the object of this? Why, to have a diversified industry, to take the surplus labor we had from agriculture and place it in our factories, and then we brought labor from abroad. We added millions and millions of valuable citizens to this country, who came here for employment, and if the free trade policy had continued they would have now been on starvation wages in Europe. I thought I would see how much capital there was in the savings banks of Lowell. I found that this city, with 75,000 inhabitants, had $13,800,000 in savings banks. Then I looked at Manchester, Eng., the great manufacturing city of Great Britain, with 340,000 inhabitants, and I found in those saving banks, which the government of England has done all it can to encourage and to get the laboring population to put their savings into, had $6,800,000, a little more than half what there is in the banks of Lowell with almost six times the population of Lowell, Mass.

The Boston Post in its report of the meeting said Mr. Beard dismissed the question asked by the News with the above "slight reference." Of course he made no further reference to this phase of the matter for the excellent reason that he had completely disposed of his interrogator. It was a knock down blow and any additional punishment would have been needless cruelty. The next time the editor of the News desires to meddle with a protection orator he will select some one besides Mr. Beard.

To the business man, whose success or failure may depend upon a sudden turn in one direction or another, the failure of a customer here or there, or the happy or disastrous ending of a venture which now seems all fair and promising, nothing affords that certain protection against possible misfortune that is granted by an endowment policy in some first-class Life Insurance company.—Detroit Free Press.

The Senate proceeded to the consideration of bills on the calendar [illegible]

Among the bills passed are the following: Appropriating $50,000 for a public building at St. Albans, Vt.; for the celebration at the National Capital in the Spring of 1889, in honor of the centennial of the Constitution of the United States; appropriating $250,000 for a public building at Lowell, Mass.

After a brief Executive session, the Senate adjourned.

House.

During the morning hour the discussion [illegible] Union Pacific Railroad, the funding bill, was resumed.

Mr. Anderson of Iowa regarded the bill as a very important one, financially [illegible]. He said the career of the Pacific railroad companies had been criminal and they had robbed the Treasury of hundreds of millions of dollars, practiced extortion on the Western country and that it was controlled by the old creditors [illegible]

Mr. Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, favored the bill.

INTERNATIONAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN.

Proceedings at Saturday's Session.

WASHINGTON, March 31. The morning session of the International Council of Women was devoted to a "Conference of Pioneers," many of whom were seated on the stage. A season of silent prayer was observed, after which the hymn "The Pioneers," by Whittier, was sung. Elizabeth Cady Stanton was then introduced, and continued eulogies of the co-laborers of Lucretia Mott at Seneca Falls, forty years ago. Mrs. Stanton gave the history of the Seneca Falls Convention of 1848. The results of the labors of these reformers first were felt in New York, which was the first State to accept property rights to married women.

John W. Hutchinson, of Lynn, Mass., was next introduced and sang a song composed for the occasion. A call was then made for those on the stage who were at the Seneca Falls meetings of forty years ago to stand up and half a dozen rose.

Other speakers were Mrs. Lucy Stone, Samuel C. Pomeroy, Rev. [illegible] Brown Blackwell, Robert Purvis, colored, Miss Mary Grew, of Philadelphia, Susan B. Anthony and Grace Greenwood.

The exercises concluded, after an impassioned address by Miss Anthony, with a solo by John W. Hutchinson and a verse of "Auld Lang Syne," in which the audience joined.

The delegates held a meeting this afternoon and adopted a constitution and elected officers for the permanent organization of a National Council of Women.

At the evening session papers were read by Miss Helen H. Gardner, Miss Clara Neyman, Madame Zadel, B. Grafston, of Sweden, and Mrs. Ashton Dilke, of England.

The meeting closes to-morrow.

THE RAILROAD STRIKE.

The Situation Getting Worse and Worse

More Roads Being Drawn Into the Trouble.

CHICAGO, March 31 Strike following strike in rapid succession was the result to-day of the Burlington's first attempt to resume forcing freight on other roads Almost at the very outset a strike occurred on the Fort Wayne system, involving for the first time an undoubted extension of the trouble to the roads leading east of Chicago A leading Western line the Milwaukee and St Paul, had been completely tied between midnight and daylight, and Chairman Hoge, the leader in the absence of Chief Arthur, intimated early that before another midnight there might be perpetrated a succession of strikes unparalleled in the city One on the Pan Handle occurred at 7 A M, but was overcome by the officials of the road showing that no workman had been asked to so much as touch a car from the Burlington At 10 A M came the initial step by the Burlington in what seemed to transfer the seat of war to the lines of other roads A train of 15 cars was made up and quickly transferred to the Fort Wayne while at about the same time another train of 25 cars were made up for the Lake Shore road, and started out with 10 Pinkerton men aboard who had provided themselves with rocks to use in an emergency No strikers were to be seen, and the transfers were made without the slightest hindrance Then came the question as to how long the Fort Wayne and Lake Shore roads would allow the Burlington cars untouched on the tracks. It was not until 2 P M that a move in this direction was made

The train which had been transferred to the Fort Wayne stood upon the [illegible] at Sixteenth street and Fort Wayne officials ordered their men to take it and pull it upon the Fort Wayne tracks and ran their engines in The news spread from one engine to another and in a few moments all the crews in the yards had quit work engineers, firemen and switchmen Just at this time the 3 10 Fort Wayne passenger outward bound from the Union depot came along and stopped at Sixteenth street The engineer and fireman heard of the strike and left their engine and for a time it looked as though the train would go no further But the conductor finally volunteered to hold the throttle and a fireman was found, and the train proceeded after slight delay Eight [illegible] switch engines had been made idle and the crews of the [illegible] passenger engines [illegible] The Fort Wayne train despatcher said that he had assurance from the passenger engineers that they would not go out but no dependence was placed in them Along the line of the Chicago Milwaukee and St Paul Road freight business and passenger traffic almost suspended [illegible] morning through passenger trains were on [illegible] as the news of the strike which had been ordered at midnight had not reached them before they left the depot [illegible] the Western avenue yards [illegible] which engine was [illegible] by a flag [illegible] that strike had been ordered and they jumped from the cab The train continued on its way till the depot was reached where the passengers alighted [illegible] back [illegible] again where it was [illegible] by the crew [illegible]

Was Completely Paralyzed

This afternoon the engineers firemen and switchmen on the St Paul road held a meeting and decided to send a [illegible] to the officials of the road

To Suggest Arbitration

Superintendent Besler at the request of the committee visited the meeting and [illegible] before him a proposition whereby they agreed [illegible] but no loaded [illegible] Mr [illegible] asked them to submit their proposition in writing and agreed to forward it to General Manager [illegible] at Milwaukee

Fifty men who are regular freight and passenger conductors on the Council Bluffs division arrived at the roundhouse this morning They were brought here by the St Paul people to fill up the places of the striking engineers, firemen and switchmen but after a talk with Doherty the leader of the local St Paul men decided that not a man would throw a switch During the day as many as a dozen men

Called on the Mayor

with complaint against the C B and Q managers They claim that they were induced to come here from the East by promises of positions as brakemen, switch[illegible] made to them by the C B and Q management and on their arrival were declared incompetent and refused other work or transportation home again They are without money they say, and in a bad plight generally and have as companions in their misery two or three hundred others whose condition is exactly similar The Mayor promised to see the Chicago Burlington and Quincy people about the matter The Chicago Burlington and Quincy engineers and their friends appear to be actively engaged in collecting information concerning the management of the road since their departure from it is being indulged in regarding the departure of Chief Arthur to Cleveland Some newspapers and railroad officials particularly those of the Burlington regard it as an acknowledgement on his part, that the Burlington strike is a failure, and that he is disgusted with the new turn of affairs Chairman O'Brien of the engineers press committee emphatically denies the statement, and says that Mr Arthur has gone to Cleveland the headquarters of the Brotherhood to meet the executive advisory board of the order and to transact some private business at his home He will return in about a week

News About the Capital.

The Supreme Court Bar at the Late Chief Justice

WASHINGTON, March 31 At a meeting of the Supreme Court Bar this morning, Senator Edmunds presided Attorney General Garland representing the committee reported resolutions prepared by the committee of the late Chief Justice As Assistant Attorney General Maury delivered a brief laudatory address seconding the adoption of the resolutions, which were of the usual character, and after remarks by others the resolutions were adopted

The Boston Custom House

Secretary Fairchild has submitted to the Speaker of the House revised estimates for the expenses of the revenue cutter service for 1889 aggregating $982,983 and including $141,500 for necessary repairs to vessels

Secretary Fairchild sent a telegram to the Collector of Customs at Boston this afternoon, in regard to the proposed reduction of expenses in which he says "The department has heretofore advised you of the amount of money now available for expenses If your present force will accept such portions as you can devote to the payment of their compensation, in case no further appropriation is made by Congress, then you may pay as indicated in your telegram, otherwise a reduction of force should be made."

Private Work by the Public Printer.

Senator Hawley introduced a bill to-day to authorize the Public Printer to print from any stereotype plates in his possession, such books or documents as may be ordered by private persons

THE BOSTON CUSTOM HOUSE.

Fifty-six Heads Drop into the Basket

BOSTON, March 31. The list of removals at the Custom House was made public to-day. The list comprises fifty-six unfortunates who lose their heads, including twelve clerks, three messengers and two store-keepers in the collector's department, two clerks in the auditor's department, ten inspectors and four assistant weighers in the surveyor's department, twelve clerks and nine weight inspectors in the appraiser's department and two clerks in the naval office It is understood that Assistant Deputy T. J Smith, of the naval office, has been appointed solicitor of Internal Revenue, and that on his retirement from the naval office his position there will, for the present, remain vacant

The total reduction amounts to between $6,000 and $7,000 per month. To meet the further amount of deficiency it is proposed to pay for the months of April, May and June only such part of the several salaries as there is money to pay, the officers and employes from the Collector down, having signed an agreement to accept a pro rata reduction for the month of April, with the understanding that their claims for the balance will be recognized in case Congress makes an appropriation to meet the deficiency

AMUSEMENTS

Cecilia Club Festival

There has been a large advance sale of tickets for the Cecilia Club Festival which begins to-morrow, and a very successful series of concerts is assured Fine programmes have been arranged for each occasion The Providence Journal has the following in regard to the Beethoven Club of Boston, which will be heard here

The Beethoven Club took the house by storm We never saw in Providence a more appreciative tribute to classical music than in the perfect stillness which marked the reception of the Club's rendering of a portion of Mendelssohn's Quintette Every slight movement every breath were perceptible in the solemn hush which filled the hall till the last sweet note died away in the faintest distinguishable vibration when the applause burst forth and would not be satisfied without a repetition

The members of the club are Violin Mr Charles N Allen Mr Albert Van Raalte, viola, Mr Carl Meisel, violoncello Mr Walt Fries flute Mr G B Van Santvoord, contra basso Mr Augustus Fils

A Boston exchange in giving a notice of a recent concert in Boston says Mrs Maud M Starkweather with her richly endowed soprano voice and her remarkably flexible and facile technique contributed a brilliant episode in the success of the concert as need not be told

GRAY FUR.

BY E. GERARD.

"How easy travelling is, after all!" she exclaimed, thoughtlessly. "By this evening we shall be at K——, in sight of the railway, and after that it will be all plain sailing. Do you know," she added, in a more confidential tone, "that I was actually frightened beforehand at the idea of this journey?"

"Yes, I know you were afraid," answered Hugo, quietly, "and I will tell you something else: you could not just at first make up your mind as to whether I were a robber or merely a harmless individual."

Clara laughed somewhat guiltily.

"What made you think that?"

"Then it is true, is it not?"

"Perhaps," she admitted; "but who told you?"

"Nobody. I don't always require to be told things," said Hugo, in the same tone. "I know a great many things about you that you have never told me. At least, not with your lips."

"You lay claim to be all knowing—to guess people's thoughts?"

"I did not speak of people," he replied with emphasis. "I only spoke about you. I have never tried to guess the thoughts of another woman."

He spoke so earnestly that Clara felt herself coloring under the directness of his gaze. In her embarrassment she made an effort to turn off the subject.

"At any rate, I am not quite as transparent as you seem to think. I can keep secrets when I choose. For instance, I will lay any wager that you do not know where I have put my money!"

"Will you give me three guesses, like in the fairy tale of Rumplestiltskin?"

"Oh, yes; thirty guesses if you like," laughed Clara. "I am quite safe."

"I only ask for three; and what will be my reward if I guess correctly?"

"You will never guess, besides, I have no rewards to give."

"You have something to give," said Hugo very low. "But I am willing to take my chance and trust to your generosity. Let me see, the money is in your trunk hidden under a false bottom."

Clara shook her head.

"In the sole of your left boot," said Hugo, after some apparent meditation.

"Wrong again," she cried. "Now for the last guess."

Then, without preparation, he quickly said: "It is in your fur cap. I knew it all along."

Clara now stared at him dumbfounded. It was not that she had any objection to him knowing her secret, for, had he failed to guess, she was on the point of telling him herself. Besides, he looked so upright, so honest, that she was beginning to feel herself ready to trust him with something far more precious than gold. But that he should have guessed her secret appeared to her little short of supernatural, for she did not know that every lover is a magician, and that his eyes are all seeing.

"How could you have known?"

"Nothing simpler," said Hugo, smiling a little at her consternation. "I noticed how very careful you always were to make sure that your fur cap was firmly secured on your head, and that you never by any chance laid it aside for a minute, even when resting in the heated inn parlor. In your sleep, too, you never forgot it, and instinctively put up your hand to feel if it were safe whenever the carriage jolted."

"And I thought I had hidden it so well," said Clara ruefully. "And now it seems that every one has guessed my secret."

"Hardly that. You may make your mind easy that your fur cap is the last place in which robbers will think of looking for money. No one is likely to study you as closely as I have done, and yet"—he continued with a sigh—"there is one thing I have not yet succeeded in guessing. Would that I had indeed the power to guess your thoughts."

Clara made no answer. She was playing nervously with the shabby green tassel of the window, and looking out on to the snowy landscape with unseeing eyes. Presently, however, feeling that this silence was growing too significant, she turned round again to her companion, and with a rather obvious effort at lightness she said:

"Well, since you affect to be all knowing, perhaps you can likewise name the exact amount of money my head is at present worth?"

"How can I put a price upon what is priceless?"

"Nonsense," said Clara petulantly, feeling provoked with herself for not being more mistress of the situation, for try as she would to be evasive everything she said seemed only to drive the conversation more surely into one momentous groove. "That is not what I mean, but what is the amount of the fortune I carry inside my cap? Can you tell me that?"

"Well, no," replied Hugo. "Here I must confess myself worsted at last, for even if you are transparent, gray fur is not, and so it may just as well be hundreds as thousands, or else glittering diamonds, which are sewed into your cap. Only if they are diamonds"—he added laughingly—"they must be very hard and uncomfortable, and are likely to give you a headache if their value is something very overpowering."

Clara now laughed also in her former natural manner, forgetting the momentary embarrassment.

"Well no, there is not much danger of my head ever being bowed down beneath the weight of Koh-i-noors," she answered, removing the cap and turning the lining upward. "Seven hundred roubles in paper money, perhaps not very much to some people, but they are all I have or am ever likely to possess. See here, I ripped up the lining at one side and have distributed the notes all round the edge, so as to avoid any appearance of thickness. Do you see? Is it not neatly done?"

"Very neatly, indeed," said Hugo, but he was looking more at the uncovered wealth of her golden plaits than at the gray fur cap as he said it.

"And you think the money is safe?"

"As safe as in the Bank of England," he returned. "Not a soul will ever suspect it if you do not choose to enlighten them."

Clara gave a little sigh of satisfaction as she resettled the cap on her head.

After a pause Hugo resumed:

"Why did you say just now that it was easy to travel alone?"

"Because it is easy."

"You have never tried. You are not alone."

"Not alone?"

"Well, no, unless you are cruel enough to count me for nothing. Am I, indeed, nothing?"

Nothing! Clara suddenly remembered that he had been everything and done everything ever since they started. He was so thoughtful and quick sighted in anticipating her wants and comforts, in guessing all her wishes, that she had hardly noticed it, and had grown already to feel his protection as quite natural and as a matter of course. She had not thought about it till now, and all at once she began to perceive what it really meant.

Her heart was beating very fast, for she felt that a crisis was at hand. She hardly knew whether the sensation was pleasant or the reverse, and was only conscious of a girlish shrinking, which made her wish to put it off at all events. Not today, not just now, not in this dreadful jolting vehicle. How could she think clearly and know her own mind while the rough motion of the diligence seemed to be jumbling up all her thoughts together?

"But you are you, and I am I," she began, rather lamely trying to ward off what she dreaded. "I mean that it is only by chance that we have been travelling together. You have been very kind, I know, for you are not obliged to take care of me." But, in her innocent confusion, Clara had just conjured up the very danger she was trying to avoid.

Hugo seized her hand, which, after a weak resistance, remained in his.

"But if I desire no greater happiness than to take care of you through life! If my only hope, my only wish is to be allowed"——

The heavy jolting vehicle here came suddenly to a standstill, and the guard putting in his head at the window startled them by the information that the diligence could not possibly get up the next hill unless lightened of its occupants.

Hugo had speedily dropped the young girl's hand and jumped out, determined to bully or, if necessary, beat the driver into proceeding, but a glance at the scene showed him that this was no imaginary difficulty.

So engrossed had they been with each other's society during the last hour of the drive that neither of the coach inmates had perceived the change which had come over the landscape. The snow had been getting deeper and deeper as they proceeded, and now the horses had come to a standstill, unable to drag the unwieldy vehicle any further up hill. There was nothing for it but to get out and perform the ascent on foot, and Hugo found himself obliged to lend his assistance in pushing the carriage from behind. Luckily there was a village, or rather a wretched hamlet, at the top of the hill, and here, within the dirty kitchen of the rustic pot-house, our travelers were forced to take refuge along with coachmen, peasants, servants, and such like objectionable individuals.

Great was their consternation when they were informed that the diligence could not possibly proceed further that day. This early fall of snow had surprised them all before the sledge stage coaches had been got into working order, and a wheeled vehicle could not possibly work its way through the snow drift which encumbered the road in advance. The diligence coming from the opposite direction had been brought up in the same manner, and was likewise waiting its release some miles ahead.

"How far is it to K——?" asked Hugo.

"About eight hours when the road is clear, but in this weather out of the question. The gentlefolk will have to stay here over night."

"Impossible!" cried Clara, looking ready to cry. "We cannot stay in this dreadful hole an hour longer. Is there no other way of getting on?"

A very unprepossessing Jew, with red hair and a squint, now stepped forward and joined the conversation. Hugo had meanwhile left the room to reconnoiter for more congenial quarters.

"Yes, gracious lady, there is another way. By leaving the high road and taking a sledge you can be at K—— this evening. There is a country track which will take you there far quicker than the diligence could have done."

"I knew it!" cried Clara, triumphant. "Have you got a sledge, and can you drive us?"

"How should old Isaac not have a sledge, my pretty lady? As good a sledge as you can wish to see. I am going to drive a gentleman to K—— today, we shall start in an hour, and if the lady chooses to go with us there is plenty of room."

Hugo, soon after returning to the room, was surprised and not over pleased to find Clara in deep conversation with the ill looking Hebrew.

"It is all settled," she called out to him gleefully, and she gave the gist of what the Jew had told her.

"But the road you speak of leads through a deep forest, does it not?" said Hugo, consulting his map. He did not appear to be delighted with the scheme.

"A forest, noble gentleman! Only a few trees there may be, perhaps. And what if there is a forest? The snow will be less deep in the wood, and the wind less cold. May my body be burned in eternal fires if the road be not a good one."

"Yes, yes," said Clara, impatiently, "it is all right, let us have the sledge by all means."

"I beseech of you, fraulein, to let me speak a few words to you alone before deciding," said Hugo in a low voice. "I have something important to say to you."

But Clara, feeling sure that she knew what it was he was about to say, feigned not to understand.

"No, not what if the risk of delay, let us decide at once, if we lose our time we shall not arrive by daylight."

"But indeed it would be better to wait for the diligence to-morrow. It would be ever so much more comfortable and more safe," urged Hugo with a last effort at dissuading her.

"More safe!" said Clara scornfully. "What can happen to us in a sledge? The worst can only be an upset, and that is nothing in the snow."

"Perhaps the gentleman is afraid of wolves," put in the Jew facetiously. "Suppose the beautiful young lady is by far the best man of the two, she is not afraid."

Hugo merely shrugged his shoulders, as though it were not worth while to assert his valor before such vermin, and merely said:

"I have got my revolver, which will answer enough for either wolf or man who comes in my way, but, all the same, I am of opinion that it would be wiser to wait for the diligence to-morrow."

"No, no," said Clara, slightly nettled at his obstinacy on this point, and perhaps flattered by her courage being praised even by a ragged Hebrew. "I have quite made up my mind. I shall go by the sledge at all events. You can do as you please, I told you I was able to travel alone," she finished, playfully.

A very attentive observer might have fancied that a shade of something, either displeasure or disappointment, had passed over the red haired Jew's face at mention of the revolver, but whatever it may have been it was gone instantly, as he glided from the room with obsequious alacrity to get ready the sledge.

WARREN'S COUGH BALSAM,

THIS IS AN OLD AND RELIABLE REMEDY

For Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, Diphtheria, etc.

It was originally prepared by the advice and under the supervision of one of the most skillful physicians of the country. From the very first it took high rank among the specifics for those diseases, and ever since it has been growing in favor with the people and the medical profession, as the large number of testimonials in our possession will show. It is pleasant to take and affords quick relief. We offer it to the public, confident that it has no equal for the purposes for which it is commended.

Tar, Bloodroot, and Wild Cherry

COUGH CURE.

The most popular Cough Remedies of the day are those which contain the drugs mentioned above, and this is so in spite of the unpleasant taste and appearance which the Tar gives to them. Knowing this, we have endeavored to produce something in the form of a Syrup that would hold in solution these ingredients of these valuable curatives, and at the same time present an attractive appearance and agreeable taste. How perfectly we have succeeded, the preparation itself will attest. We defy the efforts of every manufacturer in the world to produce results superior to what we show you in this elegant compound of TAR, BLOODROOT AND WILD CHERRY, and

We Challenge Every Cough Cure in the Market

To Effect Greater Cures than this Has Done.

Invariably it Cures Bronchitis and Irritated Throats, caused by poisonous secretions from Catarrh troubles. We realize the fact that no one remedy will meet the demands of all cases. Coughs arise from many causes, and require a proper diagnosis and the application of appropriate remedies that the best results may follow treatment, but there are very many people who suffer from Coughs that are not to be mistaken as to their origin, and may be easily treated by the sufferers themselves when they resort only to the remedies, the composition of which are KNOWN, and KNOWN to be HARMLESS, as well as POTENT. There is no secret about this remedy, except the process of making. It contains just what we tell you, and nothing more. It is perfectly healthy to use, for in other words, it produces results that are not good. All Cough remedies containing opiates derange the stomach. This Cough Syrup contains nothing but drugs which have a tendency to aid digestion.

Use it and be cured. Take it and you will be thankful for the pleasant results.

SPRING OF 1888.

Season of Turmoil and Trouble

TO THE HOUSEWIFE,

—AND—

COLD DINNERS

TO THE HUSBAND.

To lighten the labors of the one, and shorten the cold dinner days of the other, THE ATKINSON HOUSE FURNISHING CO. respectfully tender its services, supported as it is by one of the best drilled corps of attendants, and backed by the largest and best stock of CHAMBER FURNITURE, PARLOR FURNITURE, CARPETING for the million, DINING-ROOM FURNITURE, SITTING-ROOM FURNITURE, HALL FURNITURE, LIBRARY FURNITURE, LODGE and CHURCH FURNITURE, and not alone this, but foreseeing the wants of the public, and endeavoring to locate ourselves where we could better attend to those wants, so that to-day we cover an area in the State of from point to point nearly 175 miles. That is, to customers residing in Kennebunkport, or near the New Hampshire line, our BIDDEFORD STORE, stocked with everything that heart can wish for house furnishing, will supply their wants near at home. On the other hand we have endeavored to place almost in the midst of the people of Eastern Maine, a store located at BANGOR, whose floors (which are very large) are groaning under their weight of all the different kinds and grades of FURNITURE, CARPETINGS, BEDDING, STOVES and RANGES, DRAPERY, SILVERWARE and CROCKERY WARE, and all necessaries and essentials to the complete furnishing of homes. Then if you are in the vicinity of PORTLAND, you will find at our head-quarters here, probably the most extensive line of house furnishings ever carried in New England, and amounting in this establishment alone to over $150,000. To those resident in Androscoggin County, and points nearest to AUBURN, we would respectfully direct their footsteps to our large store there, probably one of the finest buildings in an architectural sense and best laid out furniture store in Maine. And again to those resident on the line of the Knox & Lincoln R. R., or at Camden, Rockport, and all of those towns, we call particular attention to the ROCKLAND STORE, situated on Main St., and which is crowded with all the necessaries for house furnishing. And we can go further and say that at any one of these Branches, but more particularly at our head-quarters at PORTLAND, we hold ourselves ready at all times to send samples of Carpeting, photographs of Chamber and Parlor Furniture, and everything one can ask for, so that a selection can be made through the mail, without the troubles and trials of a journey at this time of year. Now please remember what follows. We thoroughly pack and deliver, freight prepaid to your depot, all goods sold by us, so that no expense attends the handling of the same, only the cartage from the depot to your house. Besides this, we guarantee all goods to be just as represented, or we will make them so. We go further still, and we defy all competition, buying as we do in a syndicate where millions are turned, we do not pay the prices that are paid by small dealers, and we want to be emphatic when we say that the lady or gentleman who buys goods without first investigating our stores, goods and prices, is not possessed with that proper idea of economy that one should have in the purchase of goods. We have thousands upon thousands of testimonials from all over the New England States from people to whom we have sold goods, and who have been so well satisfied with them that they desired to give us this expression of their good will, and why should we not use people right? We have everything to do with. We carry the largest stocks. We buy the best goods, and we buy them low.

And for the benefit of those who are anxious to know about how much they can furnish a parlor for, or a chamber, or hall, library, dining-room, or any other part of the house, we will quote a few prices, giving an outside price in each instance, that is, the lowest and the highest. You will please always understand that the goods are graded between these prices, that in some instances they vary $1.00 and in some $5.00.

Chamber Sets from $15 to $160. Over 1,200 sets in stock, made up from Pine, Ash, Cherry, Mahogany, Walnut, and the different imitations. A special feature this year is our low price for Antique Ash and Antique Oak. Parlor Sets from $25 up to $350. Upholstered in Ramie, Silk Plush, Crushed Plush, Mohair Plush, and Brocatelle. The frames are Oak, Cherry, Walnut, Mahogany, and the imitations. For sitting-rooms we have all kinds of qualities and prices of odd pieces. Easy Chairs from $3.00 to $75.00. Lounges and Sofas from $3.50, $10, and up to $75. For halls we have Hat-trees all the way from $5.50 to $75.00. We can give you a beautiful Hat-tree for $10. Then we have Settees and odd Hall Chairs, and tables that match. For dining-rooms we can give you an Extension Table from $4.75 up to $50.00, and made to order as high as you wish to go. Sideboards from $16.75 to $300. Dining Chairs from 50 cts up to $20.00 each. Dinner Sets from $5.50 to $75. Silver-ware all prices. Water pitchers from $7.50 to $40. Now for the kitchen we can furnish you Ranges at $11.25 and from that up to $60. We also have all the requisites of the kitchen at all prices. In the line of Carpeting we probably excel all other dealers, from the fact that our purchases are larger than all other dealers put together in the whole of New England. Here we have Cotton Carpets, ranging from 20 cts up. All Wool Carpets from 45 cts up. Tapestry Carpets from 47½ cts. up. Body Brussels Carpets from 85 cts up. Velvet Carpets from 90 cts. up. Axminster Carpets from $1.35 up. Wilton Carpets from $1.50 up. All these carpets, that is, the Tapestries, Body Brussels, Axminsters, Velvets, Wiltons we can furnish borders for.

Besides this we have a full and complete line of Cocoa Mattings for halls and entry ways. Also Napier Mattings for kitchens and offices. We carry a full and complete line of Oil Cloths from 3 ft. wide to 15 ft. wide, and the prices are anywhere from 25 cts. up to $1.00 per yd.

If you have had the patience and interest to read thus far, please bear in mind what we say now. We have been before the public of New England for pretty nearly 16 years, formerly as the old house of B. A. Atkinson & Co., and now under our new name, and organized as a Corporation, and known as The Atkinson House Furnishing Co. And never in any instance have we advertised what we did not have. When we say we have $150,000 worth of stock in our Portland store and store-house, we mean that we have got just that much, and we mean that our experience in all these years leads us to believe that we know what to select and how to buy in order that we may put these goods on the market to satisfy our customers, and at prices which cannot be duplicated in any establishment in New England. This seems a strong statement, but remember the amount of business we do, which will reach this year one million. We are paying $15,000 less for rents than any other concern in the city of Boston, or any other city that we know of has to pay to do the like amount of business. This $15,000 is a direct benefit to our customers. Now to those who can not pay all cash, we hold ourselves ready at any and all times to sell them by our popular contract system, which means a quarter of the amount down at the time of purchase, and the balance in easy weekly or monthly payments. Come and see us. We do not care whether you visit the Portland store, the Biddeford store, the Auburn store, the Rockland store, or the Bangor store, you will receive a like treatment in them all. You will get uniform prices in them all, and if you care to save money in your house furnishings, you must come to our establishment first.

It will do you no harm to see the stock, get some points, and get our prices. If we have not spoken truthfully, then look somewhere else, but come and see us.

Respectfully, the Public's Obedient Servants,

THE ATKINSON HOUSE FURNISHING CO.,

HEADQUARTERS,

Undertakers' Notice.

JOHN KANE & CO

Wish to inform the public that they have opened rooms at

for the purpose of conducting the UNDERTAKING BUSINESS in all its branches. We have secured the services of a practical embalmer and funeral director, and have a well-assorted stock of Coffins, Caskets, Metallic Cases, Robes, &c., which will at all times be kept up to the market standard. Hacks to any number supplied on demand for funerals and other occasions. We would respectfully solicit a share of the public patronage. Open all hours of day and night.

Yours to serve,

JOHN KANE & CO.,
